ESRC Seminar Series
Ethics in Consumption: Interdisciplinary Perspectives

Doctorial Colloquium

29 October 2015
University of Glasgow
9am - 4.45pm

Keynote speakers

Dr Terry Newholm
Manchester Business School, University of Manchester
Self-interest, Altruism and the Consumer

Dr Alan Bradshaw
Royal Holloway, University of London
Consumer Ethics, Neoliberal Externalism and CSR Bullshitting

PhD candidates presenting:

Michaela Bishop, University of Plymouth
Factors Influencing Household Food Waste

Eleanor Boyce, University of Manchester
Geographies of Ethical and Sustainable Consumption in Times of Austerity

Stephanie Chamberlain, Sheffield Hallam University
Understanding the role of hedonism in ethical consumption: An interpretive phenomenological analysis

Yuanqing Du, University of West England
Inconsistent Consumption – an investigation of consumers’ identity avoidance from an anti-consumption perspective

Natalie Duke, Coventry University
Towards consumption reduction in clothing: An exploration of the motivators, facilitators and impediments to buying less

Robbe Geysmans, Ghent University
Re-assembling civil society: Enacting fair trade consumption at the point of purchase

Vera Hoelscher, Royal Holloway University of London
Shared Offline and Online Spaces of Ethical Consumption Communities

Tamas Lestar, University of Essex
Spirituality and sustainable food consumption: An analysis of preliminary findings on a Hare Krishna eco-farm in the UK

Artemis Panigyraki, Imperial Business School
Towards Understanding the Role of Consumer Suspicion in Their Ethical Consumption Decisions

Registration and further information:
http://ow.ly/SvPxK