Brazil

MEC (Ministry of Education - Brazil)

Higher Education Institutions Rankings

- In 2008, MEC released, for the first time, rankings positioning Brazil's 1,900 Higher Education institutions. The (polemic) criteria include quality of Undergraduate and Postgraduate programs.
- UG results are measured through the ENADE (performance of their students in a test everyone must take post-graduation), students qualitative opinion, infra-structure and faculty data. For PG, the grades given by CAPES (government body that evaluates PG) and the number of enrolled students also count. The final score places each institution in one of the bands (1-5). Bands 1 and 2 are considered insufficient, and 30% of the institutions are there. They will be monitored by MEC.
- The two best universities of the country, USP and UNICAMP, refused to participate due to the methodology, and are not listed in the next pages. They are negotiating their participation for the next study. Other institutions were not listed because they are relatively new and their programs couldn't be evaluated yet.
- One has to be very careful about which ranking to consult. MEC divides HE institutions in 3 groups: "universities", "faculdades/schools" and "university centres". The differences are more in size and range of subject areas, but for UK standards this breakdown doesn't make sense: they would all be considered "universities". Therefore, we recommend that one does not use simply the "Melhores Universidades" (Best Universities) list, because most of the best HE institutions will not be there, since they are not under the category "universidades". In fact, most of the best scores were achieved by "faculdades/escolas" (schools). Same thing with the worst grades, showing that it's impossible to tag the private institutions with any labels – it just depends which ones you are talking about.
- Your market intelligence area in the Brazil Partnership website features all the institutions and complete rankings, but we printed for you a survival kit:
- The "All Mixed" ranking, putting together universities, faculdades and centres (they can be identified by the different colors). We list all institutions from SP and Rio states.

BLUE: faculdades/schools

YELLOW: "pure" universities

ORANGE: university centres

“Best Universities”: the best institutions classified as “universities”, all over Brazil. Most of them are public (students don’t pay at all to study there)

“Faculdades/Schools”: the best faculdades/schools from the whole country. Largest percentage of private institutions.

- Each entry in the rankings comes with the full name of the institution, the shorter way they are usually referred to (USP, FAAP, FGV etc), their State from Brazil, whether there are PRIVATE (paid) or PUBLIC (no tuition), their final score and band (bands 3, 4 and 5 are all good).
- We understand that understanding the rankings might be a little confusing, so we make ourselves available to help you with anything you need.
