Jack has applied to study various subjects related to Neuroscience.
He received the following conditional offers:

Nottingham- Neuroscience, ABB
Swansea- Healthcare Science, BBB
Leicester- Biological Sciences, ABB
Queen Mary's- Neuroscience, ABB
Nottingham Trent- Biomedical Science, BBC

He firms Nottingham and makes Nottingham Trent his insurance choice.
Jack wakes up on Results Day to see that he achieved BBB.

What would you advise Jack?

Emily has applied for English courses at the following universities:

University of Chichester- English Literature, 96 UCAS points
St Marys Twickenham- English Literature, 112 UCAS points
Leeds Trinity University- English Literature, 104 UCAS points
University of Salford- English Literature, 104 UCAS points
Sheffield Hallam- English, 120 UCAS points

She firms Sheffield Hallam and makes Chichester her insurance choice. Emily gets her results and finds out she has achieved BBB, the equivalent of 120 points and has received an A in her EPQ, worth another 20 points.

What would you advise Emily?

Abdul has applied to study politics. He receives the below offers:

Warwick- Politics, AAA
UCL- Politics, Sociology and East European Studies, AAB
London School of Economics- Government, AAA
Durham, Politics, AAA

Abdul firms UCL's offer. He receives A*A*A in his A Levels. However, he has decided that studying in London will be too expensive and wants to study up north rather than in London.

What would you advise Abdul?

Jess has applied to study Criminology and has received the below offers:

Manchester Met- Criminology, 112 UCAS points
Royal Holloway- Criminology and Sociology, BBB
Surrey- Criminology, ABB
Kent- Criminology, BBB

Jess firms Surrey's offer and makes Royal Holloway her insurance. However, by Results Day, Jess has decided she actually wants to study LLB Law.

What would you advise Jess?

Michael has applied through UCAS for Business courses

Brunel University - Business and Management (Marketing), BBB
University of East London- Business Management, 112 UCAS Points
University of Westminster- Business Management, BBC
University of Greenwich- Business Studies, 70 UCAS Points
Queen Mary- Business Management, AAA

Michael makes Queen Mary his firm and Greenwich his insurance choice. Michael decides that he actually wants to specialise in Human Resources rather than general Business.

What would you advise Michael?