

The science of

COP26

Wednesday
10th November 2021

This event will feature short talks and discussion by members of staff and PhD students across the three departments covering their research and how it feeds into the themes of climate change and climate impacts

The aim is to showcase the range of environmental, climate and ecological science within Royal Holloway that is highly relevant to understanding the challenges that face us.

Shilling
Building
2 - 6pm

Information:

Follow for updates at #ClimateInteractRHUL

Open to all staff and students
Tickets available on Eventbrite under COP26 Forum
Royal Holloway

Event Organisers:
Simon Blockley,
Martin King &
Julia Koricheva

Department of Geography

Department of Biological Sciences