

Department of Psychology

About the department

In the Department of Psychology our world-class researchers teach at all levels of our degree courses, giving you the opportunity to learn from psychologists at the forefront of the discipline. We were ranked joint 3rd out of Psychology Departments in the UK (Times Higher Education, The Research Excellence Framework, 2021) for the quality and impact of our research. We are one of the best-equipped psychology departments in the country with our own on-site magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) scanner, instruments for recording electrical changes in the brain (EEG) and for stimulating brain areas (TMS). We also have technology for eye tracking, virtual reality environments, a sleep lab and a baby lab for studying the development of young infants. We're passionate about our teaching and you'll be part of a dynamic and engaging community of learning. Our students appreciate the support they receive from our staff, and we are consistently in the top 10% of all UK psychology departments in terms of undergraduate student satisfaction.

Entry requirements

Modules in the Department of Psychology are open to all Study Abroad, International Exchange, and Erasmus students, provided previous experience in and knowledge of Psychology can be evidenced. Owing to the popularity of Psychology modules and limited classroom capacity, we are currently only able to offer modules to Visiting Students who are Psychology Majors or Minors. We would like to take this opportunity to remind applicants that first-year modules at UK universities can generally be considered as roughly comparable to 200 level modules in the American university system or requiring at least 1 full year of previous study of Psychology at another institution.

The information contained in the module outlines on the following pages is correct at the time of publication but may be subject to change as part of our policy of continuous improvement and development.
