The Step Up to Social Work Postgraduate Diploma (Step Up PGDip) is a full-time course delivered over a 14 month period. Teaching takes place during the day over 4 terms January to April. It is a fast-track condensed qualifying social work course supported and funded by the DfE and run in partnership with the commissioning Step Up Partnership Group ie the group of commissioning local authorities, for example for Cohort 7 (22-23) this was the Surrey and South London Step Up to Social Work Partnership (SSLSUP). The course was originally approved by the College of Social Work and then the HCPC, before regulatory responsibilities transferred to Social Work England (SWE), who approve annual monitoring of the course.

The overall aim of the Step Up PGDip course is to produce social work practitioners who are able to demonstrate an ability to be critically reflective practitioners who can analyse and analytically integrate the specific subject knowledge, values and skills to promote and safeguard individual and collective well-being with a range of user groups in complex situations. On successful completion of the course students will be able to demonstrate qualifying level capabilities in line with the Professional Capabilities Framework (BASW, 2019) and Social Work England's Education and Training Standards and Professional Standards. . On successful completion of all required elements of the course students are eligible to apply to Social Work England for professional registration. The social work team in the Department of Law and Criminology, works closely with the Step Up Partnership Group. The Steering Board consists of employer representatives from the commissioning Local Authority partner agencies, Department representatives and staff from the Department of Education on an occasional basis.

3.2 Optional modules

In addition to mandatory modules, there is one optional module available during the course of your diploma, see below. Although Royal Holloway will keep changes to a minimum, new options may be offered or existing ones may be withdrawn. For example; where reasonable and necessary due to unexpected events, where requirements of relevant Professional, Statutory or Regulatory Bodies (PSRBs) have changed and course requirements must change accordingly, or where changes are deemed necessary on the basis of student feedback and/or the advice of External Advisors, to enhance academic provision. There may be additional requirements around option selection, please contact the Department for further information.

On successful completion of the Step-Up PGDip students can opt to extend their studies to complete the 60 credit Social Work Research and Dissertation module SW5025. Successful completion of this module leads to an MSc qualification. Any continuation of studies at RHUL may require consultation with the candidate’s employer re. funding and time away from employment to complete academic work.

Section 7 - Teaching, learning and assessment

- Teaching and learning in the social work qualifying courses are closely informed by the active research of staff, particularly in the areas of applied social work practice, including areas such as mental health, children and families, adoption, decision-making, dementia, homelessness and the role of emotions in professional practice. In general terms, the courses provide opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge of both core subject material and specialised research areas, and for students to develop and demonstrate the above learning outcomes. Teaching and learning is mostly by means of lectures, workshops, interactive seminars, including critical reflection and observational learning seminars. Specific modules include problem-based learning activities involving facilitated and self-directed group work, reflective and research activities. Students who opt to extend their studies to undertake the Social Work Research and Dissertation module will develop their research project by attending module lectures and undertaking a research project supervised by an academic. Teaching and learning take place in both academic and practice settings, informed by academic research, specialist practitioners (including social work service and training managers), service users and carers, practice educators, and practice tutors.
- A range of teaching methods are employed, including lectures, seminars, workshops, group work, blended learning sessions, individual and group tutorials, guided independent research and study, observations, case discussions, practice presentations, supervised fieldwork and practice supervision.
