Department of Economics
Annual PhD Conference 2019

With guest speakers:
Gregory Jolivet, University of Bristol
Shqiponja Telhaj, University of Sussex

Gregory Jolivet is an Associate Professor (Reader) in Economics and a Research Affiliate at the Centre for Structural Econometrics at the University of Bristol. Gregory has gained his PhD from the Université Paris 1 Panthéon Sorbonne in 2006 and has previously worked at Tinbergen Institute (Amsterdam) before moving to Bristol. His areas of expertise are Labour Economics, Economics of Education and Econometrics.

Shqiponja Telhaj is an Associate Professor (Reader) in Economics at the University of Sussex and an Associate at the Centre for Economic Performance, London School of Economics. Her primary research interests are in Applied Microeconomics, especially Education and Labour Economics. In November 2017, Shqiponja was appointed a Member to the Technical Advisory Group at the UK Department for Education, providing independent guidance and recommendations on recent UK government interventions on increasing the supply of teachers and improving the quality of teaching in STEM and Modern Foreign Languages subjects.

The PhD Conference represents an excellent opportunity for current research students to gain feedback from their peers and academics from inside and outside of the department. First year students will be presenting their research during a poster session, second year students and finalists will be giving an oral presentation of their work.

Monday 29th April & Tuesday 30th April 2019
10am – 5pm

Horton Building – H321

All welcome. Admission free.
No registration needed.

Royal Holloway,
University of London
Egham, Surrey, TW20 0EX