(with Advanced Award in Social Work)
Children and families / Leadership and management

Royal Holloway
University of London

The Masters in Advanced Practice (with Advanced Award in Social Work - Children and families or Leadership and management) builds upon the long-standing partnerships that the Department has with employer agencies and service user groups.

This programme is delivered via a part-time, modular approach which offers flexibility to suit the needs of social workers wishing to continue their professional development.

It provides professionally and academically rigorous postgraduate training for experienced workers in social care and health services, and will lead to academic and professional qualifications at Masters and Advanced levels.

Students are able to exit at different stages through the programme. Students successfully completing Stage 1 can achieve a Postgraduate Certificate, and those also completing Stage 2 can achieve a Postgraduate Diploma (with Higher Specialist Award in Social Work).

The programme provides:

- High quality training that enables students to critically evaluate theory and utilise research findings in relation to advanced practice and leadership.
- Enhanced skills and the ability to provide ethically-sound and effective practice and leadership within an anti-oppressive practice framework.
- The opportunity for students to undertake independent, critical analysis and thinking, and enhance professional development through reflective learning and practitioner-led research.
- A critical and reflexive approach, using adult learning models. Students are encouraged throughout to make use of learning opportunities in their workplace and demonstrate their integration of learning in their current practice as practitioners or managers.
